

It's intriguing how some words feel like their meaning while others are just words. A flower has beautiful color and aroma but the word doesn't make me feel those things. But hearing #delicious makes my mouth water and when whispered in my ear makes my whole body hunger.

